REPUBLICANS IN FIST FIGHTING

SEVERAL FIGHTS TOOK PLACE AT SAVANNAH YESTERDAY.

ALBUS CROWD EJECTED

Miss Elizabeth Leet of Maryville Was Named as an Alternate to the Chicago Convention.

The St. Joseph News-Press had the following about the Republican congressional convention at Savannah yesterday:

There were fist fights in the Fourth congressional district Republican convention at Savannah late yesterday afternoon between members of the rival factions from Buchanan County, when the delegates named by C. U. Philley were seated, over protests from the John S. Boyer delegates.

Pandemonium reigned for nearly half an hour, while the Boyer delegation, after being denied seats, held a "rump" convention in the convention chamber and elected Boyer and John Albus delegates and Louis F. Randolph and Dr. W. S. Carrion alternates to the national convention at Chicago.

After the Boyer delegation had been cleared from the room, the convention went into regular session and elected Philley and L. C. Cottrill of Savannah as delegates to Chicago.

The alternates named are: W. M. Rankin, Atchison County; Miss Elizabeth Leet, Nodaway County.

When the convention reconvened, shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Boyer delegates were found to have occupied the seats in the hall reserved for the Buchanan County delegation, forcing the Philley delegates to the sidelines.

The report of the credentials committee, which unanimously recommended the seating of the Philley delegation from Buchanan County was read and Merrill E. Otis, chairman, called for a motion.

Immediately Louis F. Randolph of the Boyer delegation was on his feet, demanding that his faction be allowed to present its case to the convention body. He was ruled out of order and John S. Boyer asked recognition, with the same result.

By this time the convention was in turmoil and there were cries of "sit down," "sit down." Above the uproar Boyer was heard to shout:

"You dare not submit this question to this convention! All we want is to tell you the truth!"

J. B. Jones and Dr. W. S. Carrion, negroes in the Boyer delegation, were on their feet, asking recognition, but the chair ignored them. Jones conferred with Boyer and shouted:

"We will hold a convention of our own if you won't let us present our case."

The Boyer delegates immediately proceeded to hold their own convention, electing Louis F. Randolph chairman. The delegates and alternates were then elected, amid the general uproar of the convention.

SEEKS ADOPTION OF PHYSICALEDUCATICN

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION FAVORS PLAN IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

DEVELOPS FINER TYPE

With Systematic Training Leaders in Campaign Say Next Generation Will Be Markedly Improved.

Washington, May 1.—Three-fourths of the 25,000,000 school children in the elementary and secondary schools of the United States are suffeirng from physical defects which are seriously impeding their mental and physical development, according to a report of a committee of the National Council of Education. Compulsory physical training for all school children is being advanced by the National Physical Education Service as the remedy for this condition.

More than a dozen states already have in operation compulsory physical education laws and it is the purpose of the National Council to bring about the enactment of similar measures in all states. "Physical education," a statement issued by the council says, "must be recognized as a national responsibility because of its vital relation to national prosperity, national security and the general public welfare."

Statistics prepared by the Federal Government as a result of examination of drafted men during the war are being used to drive home the need of physical education in the schools. These statistics, it is declared, show that 35 per cent of the drafted men were physically incapacitated for military service.

Experts assert that 60 per cent of the defectives among drafted men and the pupils in the schools were preventable cases. They were due, in general, to poor physical condition remediable by proper nutrition, physical training and personal hygiene, to defective eyes, bad mouth conditions and to neglected surgery.

With systematic physical training in vogue in all the public schools, leaders in the physical education campaign declare, the next generation will be of a markedly finer type physically. Modern social and industrial conditions are such, it is asserted, that children can no longer be permitted to grow up without thought being taken for their physical welfare.

They are half pints of "good nourishing stew," and the sale is the outcome of plans to reduct the H. C. L. for post office employes by Postmaster Roland M. Baker. It is the first time that stew has ever been sold at the Boston office, but Postmaster Baker announces that he is determined to bring down the "high cost of lunches." Cardboard cartons contain the stew, half pints selling for a nickel and pints for a dime. HOME GARDEN HABIT TAUGHT BY WAR

SECRETARY MEREDITH POINTS OUT GAIN TO COUNTRY

MOVEMENT TO SUBURBS

Houses in Suburban Districts Have Jumped in Value—Increases Skill of Gardeners.

Secretary E. T. Meredith of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a letter sent throughout the country urging that a thrift garden campaign be made this spring, to help lower the high cost of living, makes an interesting statement about the home gardens of America.

The war taught this generation the value of home gardening, the secretary says, and while there are no statistics on the value of the food produced in this way, the experts of the department report that from their observation more was produced in 1919 than in 1917.

The latter was the first war garden year when probably more gardens were made in this country than ever before or since. Patriotic zeal inspired attempts to make vegetables grow in very barren soil, in many cases. Many disappointments resulted, and in succeeding years the number of gardens undoubtedly was reduced, but as the secretary pointed out, the amount of food produced increased.

This was due, without doubt, to the increased skill of the gardeners that stuck at it, and the improved yield of land cultivated more than one season.

Like man other fashions that have followed the world war, the vogue of home gardens is not peculiar to America. In England, the allotment holders, who cultivate parcels of land assigned to them by the government, are still at their agreeable task. The "back to the land" movement is pronounced in England, where great estates are being cut up into small farms, which the men who cultivate them, for the first time in generations, are allowed to buy.

In every large American city, coincident with the increase in rents which has marked the last six months, there has been a tremendous movement to the suburbs and the country. Houses in suburban localities have jumped in value, the most desired being those which had ground suitable for gardens attached to them.

Promoters of subdivisions have found that the quickest sales were made where "small farms" were offered, this being the phrase used to describe half acre, acre and larger tracts, which are represented as sufficient for extensive home gardening operations.

Unlike many of the tendencies coming in the wake of the war the popularity of gardening is asserted to be distinctly wholesome.

TWENTY-NINE HAVE JOINED THE LEAGUE

TEN COUNTRIES THAT FOUGHT GERMANY WITHHOLD APPROVAL

MEETING TO BE IN JUNE

Applications of Other Nations to Be Acted On—Treasury Has Funds to Carry On Work.

London, April 29.—The League of Nations today has a membership of twenty-nine nations, counting the British empire as one nation, while eleven countries who were at war with Germany have not yet become supporters of the covenant.

Of the twenty-nine members, thirteen comprise neutral states who have accepted the invitation in the Treaty of Versailles to declare their adhesion to the league.

The following powers who were at war with Germany have ratified the Versailles treaty, and hence become first members of the league:

Belgium, Brazil, British Empire, including Canada, Australia, South African Union New Zealand, India; Czecho-Slovakia, France, Guatemala, Italy, Japan, Liberia, Panama, Peru, Poland, Siam, Uruguay, Greece, Portugal.

The thirteen neutral states which have joined the league are:

Argentine, Chila, Columbia, Denmark, Netherlands, Norway, Paraguay, Persia, Salvador, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Venezuela.

Thus twelve of the league's members are situated in the New World.

Nations which were at war with Germany but have not yet ratified the Treaty of Versailles, and hence are not members of the league, are as follows:

United States, Cihua, Cuba, Ecuador, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Rumania, (who shortly intends to), Serbia, Hedjaz (the new Arabian kingdom).

As soon as the above nations ratify the treaty they automatically become members of the league.

Four or five other nations, such as Esthonia and Finland, have petitioned to become members, but no action can be taken until President Wilson has summoned the first assembly of the body of delegates, when their cases will be put to a vote. A two-thirds vote of the membersip—the voting membership at present being thirty-four nations, counting the British empire as six nations—is required to vote a petitioning nation into membership.

The expenses of the league are refrayed pro-rata, according to size of the nations, as shown by the last International Postal Agreement. The league at present has a credit balance in its treasury and more than half the sum asked for by the ratifying powers to carry on the work of the league has been paid in. At the Rome meeting the financial condition of the league will be made public.

No definite proposals have come before the league's council yet for transferring activities to Geneva, as provided by the treaty. This matter will not be rushed, since the plebiscite is under way in Switzerland defining conditions under which Switzerland enters the league.

In June there will be a meeting at Rome of national societies which are spreading the gospels of the covenant.

ERA OF PETTICOAT POWER FORECAST

FEMININE POLITICAL REIGN AT NATION'S CAPITAL PREDICTED.

POSSESS SIXTH SENSE

Mere Girls Have Matched Wits With Shrewdest Politicions and Amazed the Skilled Gentlemen.

Washington.—According to the stars and Michael O'Leary, chairman of the state Democratic committee of Massachusetts, this is the dawn of the new era of petticoat political power.

"Lord help the men!" says O'Leary.

What chance, he asks, has the mere male with all his political training and knowledge against the sixth sense possessed by the female of the species?

"All girl babies are born with the sixth sense," he says.

To support his prophecy that the political battles of the future will be won, not by political experience, but by the sixth sense, he calls attention to three young women, whom Washington politicians declare the cleverest lobbyists in the country.

Mere girls—charming feminine persons and "politically innocent," as some one has phrased it—Betty Gram of Portland, Ore.; Mary Dubrow of Passiac, N. J., and Anita Pollitzer of Charleston, S. C., have matched wits with the shrewdest politicions of the nation and have amazed those skilled gentlemen by their political acumen.

Workers in the National Women's Party, they have played a big part in "putting over" suffrage.

Anita Pollitzer, a winsome, dark haired little person, is the party's chief lobbyist at the capitol. Her job has been to obtain pressure from congressmen or to move stubborn legislatures "back home." Even the leading antis in congress have been "brought around" by the diplomacy of this young woman. Distinguished United States senators confer gravely with her and listen respectfully to her opinions.

Betty Gram "put over" New Jersey. She outgeneraled "Jim" Nugent, boss of the Democratic party in his home state and of more than local fame as a politician. "Some job," say those familiar with politics in New Jersey.

With Mary Dubrow she led the forces that won one of the most drastic battles in the history of suffrage—hat in West Virginia.

Dark-eyed Miss Dubrow, from Passaic, and the vivavious Miss Gram, from the West, could collaborate on a spicy book labeled "The Legislatures We Have Met."

"Wonders, those girls," says Mr. O'Leary of Massachusetts, a man who knows the political game from A to Z, "and not one of them with a whit of political experience. How do they do it? The sixth sense."

According to Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, political chairman of the National Women's Party, man himself is responsible for the development of the sixth sense in woman.

"And woe to him now that she is free to assert herself!" says Mrs. Baker.

"In the centuries woman has been kept subservient to man she has developed ingenuity to get what rights she could from her lord and master without his knowing that he was surrendering any of the male's sacred prerogatives.

"With each succeeding generation woman has become more skilled in the art of dealing with the superior sex, and today we find her able to outwit the cleverest of men in matters that require adroitness. She has acquired the sixth sense and all the brains and experience of the male are no match for it.

"Because of it she will be more adroit in politics than simple-minded man, who has learned to use only one method—the strong-arme done."

GOVERNMENT LILIES BLOOM BUT TOO LATE FOR EASTER.

Washington.—The United States Government's Easter lilite need pep. They are all dressed up and no place to go.

Just across the Potomac River, at the Arlington experimental farms, several hundred exquisite Easter lilite are bursting into glorious bloom, innocent in their faith, and unsuspecting that the hey day they were planted for is passed and gone.

The Americanization of the Easter lily, according to the department of agriculture, is entirely practicable, and some day the native horticulturists will be entirely independent of the foreign market. But that time does not seem to be yet. The lilies now in full bloom at Arlington are a thoroughly American product, grown from American bulbs, but they are hopelessly behind the schedule. If they hope to put the Bermuda lilies out of the running they will have to be crossed with the pepper bush.

However, it is predicted that within another year or so at most the high cost of Easter lillies will be materially reduced through the appearance on time of the Yankee variety.

Growers Plant Sugar Beets.

Greeley, Col., April 30.—Despite differences between beet sugar growers and the Great Western Sugar Company over prices for the raw product and threats by the growers to curtail production, it is estimated that fully 100,000 acres of land in Weld County will be planted to sugar beets this year, with a return to the farmers of approximately $15,000,000.

OMELET WITH CROUTONS WILL TEMPT APPETITES

A well-made omelet or souffle is a dish that tempts most people. Try this omelet with croutons for variety.

Make croutons by cutting stale bread into 1-3 inch cubes; fry in butter until crisp and well browned. Beat 5 eggs slightly, add 4 tablespoons of cream or milk, ½ teaspoon of salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, and the browned croutons. Put 2 tablespoons of butter in a hot omelet pan, and when the butter is melted and hot turn in the mixture. As it cooks prick and pick up with a fork until the whole is of a uniform, creamy consistency. Increase the heat and brown quickly underneath, then fold and turn on a hot platter; garnish with sprigs of parsley and serve.

No Tire is Too Good

The part of a car that wears out the fastest is its tires. You can't get 'em too good. But it is real economy to get a tire that is just as as good as possible—a tire that has a record back of it that proves that it is made good and made of the best materials it is possible to secure.

Goodyear Tires are that kind of tires. When you buy a Goodyear tire and put a Goodyear tube in it, you are giving your car the best advantage possible. You can't do any more for it, and the economy of doing it will soon be apparent.

We sell Goodyear Cord and Fabric tires and Goodyear Tubes—and NO OTHER KIND.

FRACTIOUS BABE WELL NAMED

Wearied Parent Takes Time From Task of Walking the Floor to Make a Little Joke.

The scene was a bedroom in a suburb, and a wearied parent was promenading the floor at a weird hour of the early morn, with his first-born in his arms. Many vain endeavors to soothe the infant's cries had been made; but the little one was laboring under an impression that things needed waking up, and that he was the person to do it.

"It seems to me you knew what you were about," groaned Picklebury to his wife, "when you insisted upon the child being called 'Hugh.'"

"What has his name to do with his fretfulness?" asked the unsuspicious wife.

"Everything!" replied the wretched man. "You would call him 'Hugh,' you know, and where there's a hue there's always a cry!"

DEVICE THAT ABSORBS SHOCK

Invention Patented in England, It is Claimed, Makes Solid Tires as Good as Pneumatic.

The shock absorber hub of J. John Muir, for which a British patent extension has been sought on account of war neglect of the invention, consists of a loose ring of steel balls giving the axle a close approach to a liquid bearing. Its use is stated to make solid tires as good as pneumatic, and is expected to reduce the running cost of vehicles, and contribute to economy in road construction and maintenance. An annular chamber between the hub proper and the body of the wheel is nearly—but not quite—filled with the balls. With the vehicle at rest, the balls at the bottom of the chamber support the hub; but when in motion, centrifugal action distributes the balls around the annular space, their symmetry being displaced by any upward movement due to jolt or road shock. The greater part of the shock is absorbed by the change of motion of the balls. The London Omnibus company reports a year's satisfactory test of this shock shifter. The device has been curiously overlooked in the land of its origin, but it was found to have been adopted in some German artillery wagons captured during the war.

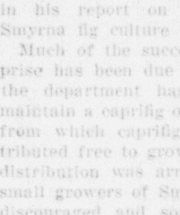
WHERE MR. SNAGGS GOT EVEN

Turned Down, He at Least Left Miss Binks Chewing the Cud of Bitter Reflection.



He was of the hard-up-but-hopeful variety. For years he had sought Fortune, but that fickle dame had put her thumb to her nose and spread her fingers out in his direction.

Now, however, he thought he had tracked her down in the person of Miss Binks.

Miss Binks was certainly not young, nor was she beautiful. When one gazed upon her, one looked again, to make sure she was not a golliwog. But she had riches, and, as the poet might have remarked, "Sweet coin is more than coronets and simple quids than Norman blood."

So he proposed; but, alas!

"No, Mr. Snaggs," she remarked; "I shall never love again. The only man I ever loved was killed at the battle of——".

Snaggs reached for his hat, a dreadful smile upon his features.

"Yes, I know," he said, with deadly calm. "Gettysburg, wasn't it?"

FIGS FOR HOME CONSUMPTION

Possibility That This Country Will Soon Be Producing All Demand Calls For.

It is not improbable that this country will soon produce all the figs it needs. This statement is made by the chief of the bureau of plant industry in his report on the progress of Smyrna fig culture in California.

Much of the success of this enterprise has been due to the fact, that the department has been able to maintain a caprifig orchard at Loomis, from which caprifigs have been distributed free to growers. Before this distribution was arranged for many small growers of Smyrna figs became discouraged and some even dug up their orchards. The relationship between these two varieties is that the Smyrna fig is fertilized by an insect which lives on the caprifig.

In the fall of 1917 the fig insect was established in some old seedling caprifig trees in Brunswick, Ga., and since then a number of caprifig trees have been similarly treated. The result is that it has been possible to caprify and bring into bearing many sterile Smyrna fig trees growing in the southeastern states. Some of these trees bear a very high grade of fruit, promising for use as fresh fruit or for canning.

What's In a Name!

"A printer informed me recently what the 'Evansville Bar association' really is," said Joseph H. Ingleheart, secretary of the Evansville association.

Mr. Igleheart recently ordered printed a number of licenses to be granted to members of the association. When a copy of the proof was shown him, he discovered that the words "Evansville Bar association" were in unusually large type.

"What do you think these licenses are for—saloon keepers?" inquired Igleheart of the printer.

"Why, certainly what else does the word 'bar' mean?" was the printer's response.—Indianapolis News.

Let In on a Secret.

While riding on a crowded street car I chanced to meet an old acquaintance. Having had quite a success with a little experiment at home, I decided to let my friend in on the secret. I placed my newspaper to my face in order that the passengers would not hear what I had to say. When I had finished telling him my story he straightened up with surprise and bellowed out, so that all within a radius of ten feet could hear him, "For the love of Mike, where did you get the corn and raisins?"—Chicago Tribune.

Southern Pine Important.

Aside from lumber, the southern pines, particularly the long-leaf pine, are the source of our naval stores, representing a value of $20,000,000 a year. The position of the United States in regard to these important raw materials is at present a commanding one. Only one other country can be considered a rival, and that country—France—produces only about one-fourth as much as the United States.

Might Raise the Rent.

"You were very polite to that man, and yet you say that you do not like him?"

"That's true. I have no fondness for him, but I have good reason for being polite to him. He's my landlord."

Brevity.

"Is your wife fond of going to church?"

"Yes; but she likes for the sermon to match her skirt in regard to length."—Florida Times-Union.

The Reason.

"They say the price of diamonds is going up."

"Yes; the working classes will not buy the cheap stones."

A SURPRISING EPISODE.

I bade him build, for hungry me,
A sandwich filled with ham.
I stood right there where I could see,
Shrewd buyer that I am!

He took two slabs of splendid bread
And buttered them just right,
Then through the ham his sharp knife fled
With all its little might.

The lean ham o'er the slices spread,
Till every bit was hid;
You don't believe a word I've said,
But that's just what it did.

The moral of this tale is this:
Ear oftener we get
A square deal, than that deal we miss;
We love to growl and fret.

CROSBY'S KIDS

War veteran, six feet, eight inches tall, and Dr. J. G. Morgan, who weighs nearly 200 pounds, had been selected from the Philley delegation to act as sergeants-at-arms in the convention and were instructed to clear the room.

Swafford grabbed Randolph from his place as chairman of the rump convention and started to drag him from the room. W. W. Brown, a St. Joseph ex-policeman, weighing 260 pounds, a member of the Boyer delegation, interposed and tried to prevent. A. W. Warren of the Philley delegation, who was a major in the army, jumped in to assist and Brown began hitting him on the back of the head. Doctor Morgan then arrived and began striking Brown in the face.

In the melee Brown's eyes were closed and his face was bleeding. Randolph and he were dragged from the room.

There were numerous other encounters between the Buchanan county rivals.

L. C. Cottrill of Savannah jumped to a chair and shouted:

"Gentlemen, this is a disgrace. I shall call on the sheriff of the county to arrest these men!"

The convention then began to calm down and a motion was put through that all persons in the building not delegates to the convention vacate their seats and give them to delegates. The motion carried and the remaining members of the Boyer party in the room passed out into the hall.

The regular convention then went into session and elected delegates and alternates.

Deacon Dobyns of Holt County was elected presidential elector.

The resolutions indorsed Senator Selden P. Spencer and State Auditor George E. Hackman for re-election, and Samuel F. O'Fallon of Holt County for Attorney-general of Missouri.

The faction supporting Philley won the first round of the fight when it delegates were placed on the temporary roll by the congressional committee yesterday forenoon.

There was a dramatic scene in the late forenoon session when the unseated delegation, supporters of John S. Boyer for national delegate, clamored for recognition on the floor of the convention and protested against allowing the Philley delegation to be represented on the credentials committee.

The convention went into session shortly after 11 o'clock in the forenoon with Merrill E. Otis of St. Joseph in the chair. After Otis' brief keynote speech, George C. Toel, serving as spokesman for the usual three committees on credentials, order of business and resolutions be selected by allowing the chairman of each county delegation to name one member of each committee.

Almost immediately Louis F. Randolph, as spokesman for the unseated Boyer convention, jumped to his feet and demanded recognition from Chairman Otis. His contest was challenged by Toel, and Otis refused to recognize him. Shouting above the tumult that ensued, Randolph protested against allowing the Philley delegates to name a member of the credentials committee, which is to pass upon the merits of the contesting delegations. Randolph was ignored and Otis started to put the motion, when John S. Boyer jumped up and asked to be recognized. Chairman Otis ruled him out of order.

By this time the eight negroes who were named as Boyer delegates were shouting "steam roller! steam roller!" at the top of their voices, and the convention chamber was in a general uproar.

Boyer pitched his voice and tried to make himself heard through the din of noises. His words were not clear, but one expression drifted through. It was this:

"No man on trial ought to have the right to choose his own jury!"

At this point, the delegates from the other counties, who had been applauding the rulings of the chair and the speeches made by Toel, turned to Boyer with a demonstration of hand-clapping and shouting, and Charles D. Morris of St. Joseph attempted to pour oil on the troubled waters.

Morris was recognized by the chairman and announced that he agreed with Boyer and, for his part, did not favor allowing the Philley delegates with whom he is in sympathy, a representation on the credentials committee.

No motion was put, but Morris' suggestion was agreed upon, and the chairmen of the county delegations proceeded to name their representatives. The Philley delegates were allowed representation on the first two committees and the credentials committee was selected, down to Buchanan county.

When the name of Buchanan county was called, Toel announced that the delegation had agreed upon Bert E. Vorhees as a member of the credentials committee and asked that as soon as the Buchanan County contest be settled Vorhees be allowed to act. There was no protest and Voorhees was thus tentatively named.

The committees were appointed as follows:

Credentials—Andrew, Ed F. Smith; Atchison, Clark McConnells; Buchanan, Bert G. Vorhees; Holt, A. M. Ebbells; Nodaway, W. F. Phares; Platte, H. A. LaMar.

Resolutions—Andrew, W. E. Westhelson, Mrs. E. P. Taflar; Buchanan, Charles L. Faust; Holt, Robert Dobyns; Nodaway, J. F. Hull; Platte, Mrs. E. T. Willhoyt.

Organization and Order of Business—Andrew, Mrs. John L. Beaghler; Atchison, George Fly; Buchanan, Dr. J. G. Morgan; Holt, E. J. Kellogg; Nodaway, Horace F. Leet; Platt, E. T. Willhoyt.
